

2014 DOctalk Registration Open

Published on July 17, 2014

This September, a group of leading orthodontic clinicians, spearheaded by David Sarver, DMD, MS, will gather together to lead a 2-day seminar that will offer a candid discussion of clinical and practice management issues. The inaugural event brings together a number of leading orthodontists, including Chung How Kau, BDS, MScD, MBA, PhD, an authority on the biology of tooth movement, and Dan Grauer, D DS, PhD, editor, researcher, and clinician specializing in digital orthodontics, to discuss today's orthodontic landscape.

DOctalk 2014—a “Dynamic Orthodontic Collaboration”—will be held at The Venetian in Las Vegas on September 26 to 27, 2014. In conjunction with lectures and networking opportunities, DOctalk attendees are eligible to earn eight continuing education credits.

Sarver's session, titled “At the Tipping Point: What's Happening? How Do We Adapt?,” will delve into the challenges of private orthodontic practices. In a release, Sarver commented, “DOctalk is an idea that doctors across the country have been waiting for—a forum where experts in orthodontics and related fields share pertinent ideas you won't hear anywhere else. Without any product push, you'll walk away from this gathering with practical medicine and astute business pointers.”

Additional presentations and speakers include:

- Accelerated Orthodontics: Is it for Real?—hosted by Chung How Kau, BDS, MScD, MBA, PhD, an authority on the biology of tooth movement
- Can Airways Be Developed Orthodontically?—with Juan-Carlos Quintero, DMD, MS, an expert on airway-centered treatment planning and CBCT
- A Model For Getting Treatment Financed In Today's Insurance Environment—presented by Myron R. Tucker, DDS, a oral and maxillofacial surgeon and innovator
- Enhanced Orthodontic Finishing Through Computer-Guidance—with Dan Grauer, DDS, PhD, editor, researcher, and clinician specializing in digital orthodontics
- Financial Rewards Of Increased Efficiency—presented by orthodontic consultant Charlene White, BS, RDH

- Marketing from the Inside Out—with Sharon Lovoy, SPHR, owner of Lovoy Team Works and executive coach to governments, universities, and Fortune 500 companies

For doctors who register before August 1, 2014, the early bird tuition price is $295. Regular tuition price is $495 for doctors and $195 for staff. Tuition includes a Friday night cocktail reception, and breakfast and lunch.

Discounted rooms, at The Venetian, can be reserved using the group code RORMC.
